PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

Many Short Items Concerning Some People You Know.

John L. Orr was in from his resort last Saturday on business.

W. P. Mariner went to the city this week on a business viist.

D. O. Sibley was over from Albion one day the first of the week on business.

E. A. Keller came up from Petaluma Tuesday to attend to matters of business.

J. W. Irish was over from Boonville one day this week attending to business.

G. A. Jane and F. Hogg, were registered at the Palace last Saturday from Philo.

Miss Alice Pinches and Mrs. Wm. Ray are down from Laytonville on a visit to friends.

Mrs. Lou Twist is here from Oakland on a visit to her mother Mrs. F. Brunner of this city.

Carl Ganter came up from the city to spend a short vacation with friends. He is one of the clerks at the Audobon hotel.

J. A. Gibson and wife are over in Anderson valley visiting friends and relatives near Christine. Andrew will also try to bag a few quail.

Tom Jamison, of Calpella, is attending Mrs. Porterfield's normal. He is a bright young man and will no doubt succeed in his aspirations.

Fred Weger and Mr. Beech came back from Colorado this week where they have been for some time. They will go to the Royal Eagle mine in Mexico shortly.

Walter Brown and Clyde Brewer made a flying trip to the metropolis the latter part of last week on business and pleasure. The boys report a very pleasant time.

J. C. Hensley and C. R. Adams were in town from Cloverdale this week, having been called here by the old fish case that has been hanging fire since last spring.

Dan Hutton, T. N. Cureton, Fred Slack and Lige Bishop, of Point Arena, arrived in town last Sunday evening to attend to important business at the county seat.

A. J. Fairbanks and W. A. S. Foster came down from Willits last Saturday to attend the regular monthly meeting of the board of managers of the local state hospital.

J. W. Hall, a prominent rancher of Miller, came over from the south coast this week to assist in a case that was brought over from the justice court at Point Arena.

P. V. Page was over from Boonville this week on business. He has a nice apple orchard on the hill between Boonville and Hopland and raises some splendid apples that he has found a ready market for here.

W. P. McFaul and Dolly Edwards have goe into the real estate business in San Francisco, having offices in the Chronicle building. They are both good business men and ought to make a success in their new departure.

Mart Baechtel came up from Oakland this week to attend to business here for a few days and then went on up to Willits where he still has business interests. Mr. Baechtel is always a welcome visitor to old Mendocino.

W. L. Reilley and Frank B. Cook were over from Christine last Saturday on business. Constable Curtis and M. B. Burke of Mendocino were over from the fog belt last Saturday. G. A. Daniels was also among the fog eaters in town.

A. H. Ewert received a telegram Sunday that his father had died in Albany, Oregon that morning. Mr. Ewert took the afternoon train for the city and caught the Oregon express that evening. Mr. Ewert, Sr., was formerly a brewer and was quite well to do. He was 89 years old.

THE FATE OF THE AMENDMENTS

With one or two exceptions the fate of the fourteen Constitutional Amendments and three Acts of the Legislature submitted at the recent election has been decided by the incomplete returns.

Senate Amendment No. 1, changing the system of State taxation, so as to relieve corportions from local taxes, is seemingly defeated by an adverse majority of about 3,000. It is unlikely that the returns from fifteen counties unaccounted for will change the result.

The Amendment allowing members of the Legislature $1,000 for each regular session instead of $8 a day and also limiting the expenses of each House to $500 a day was carried by a vote of nerly 2 to 1. It is a decided change for the better. The pay of the members is now fixed without regard to length of sessions, instead of ceasing at the end of sixty days. The result will probably be longer sessions, but there is no inducement for members to prolong them needlessly.

The amendment to abolish the mortgage tax is apparantly caried by a narrow majority of about 2,000, with fifteen counties to hear from, which may change the result.

The Amendment to allow State bonds to run for seventy-five years instead of fifty, was adopted, and the electors also gave decisive majorities in favor of the Sewall and India Basin bond issues. All of these propositions relate to harbor improvements at San Francisco, of which the India Basin or Islais Creek purchase was the most vital and desirable. That object is now certain of accomplishment, and it is a good thing for the State.

There was much ill-founded opposition to the Amendment allowing private corporatins to renew their existence at the expiration of their franchises, but it has a majority of upwards of 30,000, and deserves adoption.

The Direct Primary, one of the most important measures on the ballot, was carried by a vote exceeding 3 to 1. This Amendment requires the Legislature to pass a Direct Primary law, but it is very doubtful whether that body will do so in good faith.

Likewise adoped was the Amendment allowing the Legislature to regulate the pay of jurors according to districts, which is desirable.

The Amendment allowing night schools and kindergartens a share of State school money was adopted. But the State Board of Education—a bad measure—was defeated.

A good Amendment carried allows the Governor thirty days instead of ten in which to sign bills after the adjournment of the Legislature.

The Capital Removal proposition it is scarcely necessary to add, was so completely snowed under that it will never be raised again, either in behalf of Berkeley or any other place. But the popular rebuke is far greater to the Southern Pacific, the real promoter of the measure, than to the ridiculous Berkeley boomers, who were foolish enough to part with much money in an effort to fool the people into approving the outrageous scheme.

The Amendment to limit the liability of stockholders in World's Fair enterprises, and also the Amendment relative to stock speculation, were carried.

Pete Duff has located in Idria, San Benito county, where he has charge of a large store for a mining company. Pete says he is somewhat out of the world but is able to rake in the shekels all right. He is in a high altitude and is having high old times all by himself. He is doing a good business in the store and has therefore made good. His friends here are very glad to hear of his success.

Martin Flaherty and Miss Bessie McGarvey were given a linen "shower" at the I. O. O. F. hall last Friday evening. A large crowd of the friends of the young people were present and a very pleasant evening was spent. Many useful articles were in the "shower." The marriage of this popular young couple is to take place Sunday at the residence of Mrs. R. McGarvey in this city.

VAST COAL FIELDS TO BE EXPLOITED

A Colorado Company has Bonded 10,000 Acres of Mendocino Coal Land and is Making Investigations

Negotiations are now under way for developing and promoting one of the biggest industries in this county. Representatives of the Victor Fuel Company of Colorado have been here for several weeks investigating the big coal fields just this side of Round valley. It is the purpose of the company to make a thorough investigation of the fields with the idea of purchasing the same. A crew of 12 men are at work making extensive investigations and will do development work for several months. Quite a lot of supplies have been hauled in to last the men till spring.

The coal fields are located on the Middle fork of Eel river about five miles south of Round valley, and about five miles from the line of extension of the Northwestern Pacific. It is reported that if the examination of the coal fields proves satisfactory, the property will be opened up ready for shipping coal as soon as the railroad is completed that far north. A branch road will be built from the main line to the coal fields five miles distant.

The deal covers the purchase of about 10,000 acres of coal land. J. C. Flood is the largest owner. Local men here have quite an interest in the lands, among whom are W. P. Thomas, E. G. Case, D. E. Mankins, M. B. Gibson and others. The big Colorado compay has secured an option on the entire 10,000 acres and if the exhaustive examination that is being made proves satisfactory the deal will be comsummated at once and work begun as soon as possible. Mr. Thomas has held his holdings for over twenty years, while the Flood holdings have been held by him for forty years with the expectation that something big would come of it.

This certainly means a great deal to Mendocino county if the deal is made. It will mean the development of the entire northern part of the county and the employment of hundreds of men in the mines and other industries that would naturally spring from it. It would mean the location of a new town which would in a short time be the largest one in the county.

Attorney W. P. Thomas has had charge of the proposition and it will be through his efforts that the deal will be consummated, if consummated at all. It means the investment of millions of dollars here that will give the county a great boost. Mr. Thomas has been the cause of a great deal capital seeking investment in the county, and some of the biggest deals in the county have been made through him. The Snow Mountain Power Company's project was made through Mr. Thomas. It was through him that Van Arsdale and Henshaw put some two or three hundred thousand dollars into the county. This coal deal is the biggest of all and if successful it means a great deal to Mendocino county. What the county needs is a few more boosters like W. P. Thomas.

SENATOR CARMACK SHOT TO DEATH

Former United States Senator E. W. Carmack, of Tennessee, was killed in Nashville last Monday by Young Robin Cooper, son of Colonel Duncan Cooper. The shooting was the result of a very bitter political controversy. Cooper and Carmack were formerly associated together in the newspaper business. When Carmack ran in the primaries for Governor he was opposed by his old friend and former partner. After the campaign was over Carmack, who was editor of the Tennesseean, attacked Cooper editorially. Cooper finally sent word to Carmack to cease his attacks. Carmack refused and the shooting was the culimination of the controversy. The shooting began when the men met on the street and was almost simultaneous. Carmack was killed instantly and young Cooper was wounded in three places. Col. Cooper, the man attacked editorially, stood by and saw the fight between his son and the Senator but took no part in the affair. Carmack and Cooper were both very popular men and the shooting is greatly regretted.

Fishermen Not Guilty

The celebrated fish case from Cloverdale that has been hanging fire ever since last March came to a final trial this week. L. R. Cameron and T. Cady Perrine were arrested for catching trout out of season last spring. The trout were supposed to be in their possession and they were arrested by the game warden. The boys refused to plead guilty to a crime tht they had not committed so they stood trial. The case hung fire until this week when it came to trial and a jury pronounced them not guilty.

Has Another Guess Coming

The very partisan Record says that Fred Handy was best known in Ukiah and carried that Democratic stronghold by 50 majority. The Record has another guess coming, as to the result. The four Ukiah precincts gave Bryan a majority of 55 and Preston carried them by 167, thus running 112 votes ahead of his ticket.

MENDOCINO'S FINAL RETURNS

The board of supervisors have finished canvassing the returns of November 3rd. The landslide stopped before the last few precincts were counted and Bryan took a little spurt and cut down the Taft vote so that the Republican majority is only 980 on the head of the ticket. Hearst's political asset made a very poor run, polling only 60 votes. The majorities were as follows:

Taft 980.
Melvin 516.
McKinlay 917.
Preston 418.
White 1709.
Lawson 32.
Brandon 277.
Smith 95.

There was a total of 4913 votes polled out of a total registration of 5960, which is the best percentage yet polled in the county.

Casimir Chapter Elects Officers

Casimir Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star elected the following officers last Tuesday evening at the regular meeting: Worthy Matron, Mrs. Addie L. Case; Patron, John L. McNab; Associate Matron, Dr. Ida M. Lathrop; Secretary, Mrs. Anna R. Babcock; Conductress, Mrs. R. L. Hutchison; Associate Conductress, Mrs. Ethel Porterfield; Treasurer, L. G. Simmons. The report of Mrs. A. V. McNab, the delegate to the grand chapter, was read and much enjoyed by the large crowd present.

City Trustees Meet

The board of city trustees met last Saturday evening for the transaction of the usual routine business.

The sum of $279.88 was transferred from the Electric Light to the General Fund.

The clerk was ordered to advertise for bids for the construction of a foot bridge across Orr creek on Oak street.

Bids for construction of concrete sidewalks north and west of the city hall were opened and contract was awaded to W. I. Bailey for $295.

J. F. Diddle and Joe Antrim were among the many visitors in town from Boonville this week.

LAKE COUNTY 'DRY' IN SPOTS

At the general election held in Lake couny last week the question of local option played an important part. The proposition was placed on the ballot and the people voted by precincts whether they wanted it "Wet" or "Dry." Seven precincts, in addition to those already in line, voted "Dry." They are Gravelley valley, North Kelseyville, South Lakeport, Long valley, Middletown, both precincts, and Scotts valley. Big valley and Bachelor valley voted "Dry" at the last election.

This nearly makes Lake county a "Dry" county once more. Many of the resorts are located in these "dry" precincts and it is claimed they will suffer quite a loss as the bar trade in summer is a great revenue producer. In Lakeport all the saloons are located in South Lakeport except one, and south Lakeport went "dry." The other saloons will now have to move across the street. The same conditions exists in Kelseyville, so the trustees of those towns have a problem confronting them.

In Colusa county the same proposition was placed on the ballot and a number of small towns and precincts went "dry" in addition to those already in the "dry" list. The question is revolutionizing the business and and politics of the county.

GOOD REPORTS FROM ROYAL EAGLE MINE

Good reports keep on coming in from the Royal Eagle mine in Mexico. Lee Taylor and wife and Miss Louella Williams are there in charge. Mr. Beech has a crew of men at work and the outlook is very promising. They are getting ore out ready for shipment and it is said to be very rich. Free gold is plentiful and it looks as though the mine is a bonanza. It is interesting on account of the fact that many Ukiahites are intersted in the mine. Several Ukiah people went down there last year, and more are talking of going down this year. W. P. Thomas will go down the latter part of the year or the first of the new year.

Abe Moves His Store

Col. Abe Marks has moved his Suit and Cloak House from the Rogers building into the building formerly occupied by Hutchison & Roeder. The new store has been fitted up for the purpose intended and is neatly arranged. The Colonel understands his business and has laid in a fine line of the best of goods. This is something that Ukiah should feel proud of. It will pay all of the ladies to call and inspect the handsome coats, shirtwaists and etc., before purchasing. Col. Marks went to the city this week to lay in a further supply of goods for the fall and winter trade.

Silver Giant Blows In

John C. Lane, the silver giant of Manchester, was called over to the county seat this week to attend a law suit, the famous fish case. John came from the coast by way of San Francisco. He says that he is gradually coming to after what happened to the Democratic party last Tuesday. He is tickled to death over the way things went locally, however, and says that takes away part of the sting over the loss of Bryan.

E. F. Williford and family were here from the coast this week, Mr. Williford being a witness in a fish case. Lige reports Point Arena on the upgrade and says the town is going to improve greatly. He thinks incorporation was the proper thing and says they are fixing up the streets with bituminous rock. Lige returned to the fog belt as soon as he got through his business.

Charles Tuck, one of the enterprising ranchers of Willits, was a welcome visitor at the county seat the first of the week. He is a sterling Democrat and is well pleased with the result of the election, especially in Mendocino county.

PHARAOH THE OPPRESSOR.

This Is the Rameses Who Looms Over the Egypt of Today.

Like a cloud, a great golden cloud, a glory impending that will not, cannot, be dissolved into the ether, he (Rameses) loomed over the Egypt that is dead; he looms over the Egypt of today. Everywhere you meet his traces; everywhere you hear his name. You say to a tall young Egyptian, "How big you are growing, Hassan!"

He answers, "Come back next year, my gentleman, and I shall be like Rameses the Great."

Or you ask of the boatman who rows you, "How can you pull all day against the current of the Nile?" And he smiles, and, lifting his brown arm, he says to you, "Look; I am as strong as Rameses the Great."

This familiar fame comes down through some 3,220 years. Carved upon limestone and granite, now it seems engraven also on every Egyptian heart that beats not only with the movement of shadoof or is not buried in the black soil fertilized by Hapi. Thus can inordinate vanity prolong the true triumph of genius and impress its own view of itself upon the minds of millions. This Rameses is believed to be the pharaoh who oppressed the children of Israel.—Robert Hichens in Century.

THE LANGUAGE PUZZLE.

China's Forty Thousand Signs and Symbols to Perplex the Linguist.

The language known as Wen-li is the medium by which the classical books of China have been handed down. It is par excellence the written language of China, but it is not generally understood by the great mass of the people. The spoken language—namely, Mandarin—may also be written, and there is a good deal of colloquial literature in Mandarin. Versions of the Bible in the local patois have also been produced in several districts of the southwest, where the dialects are very numerous and diverse.

In the Chinese written language there are over 40,000 distinct characters or symbols, and this vast number is being constantly increased by the addition of new characters to represent new scientific words and modern ideas.

Although the Chinese are considered a literary people and have naturally a desire for education, yet owing to the extreme difficulty of mastering the Chinese characters it is estimated that only one in ten of the population can read or write.—Contemporary Review.

Lotteries.

The first scheme for the distribution of prizes by chance in modern times is generally attributed to one Benedetto Gentile of Genoa, who established his lottery in 1620. The proper lottery, in which each person takes part by means of tickets costing each a fixed sum of money, had its origin in more ancient times, being known even in the middle ages. Such a lottery was established at Florence as early as 1530.—New York American.

EXPENSIVE TEA.

The Famous Golden Tip and the Way It Is Obtained.

The tea looked like golden floss silk, like shredded golden satin, like the fluff of dandelions dyed gold. "And is this tea?" said the reporter.

"This," the tea merchant answered, "is the best tea in the world, and it is worth $90 or more a pound, for this, sir, is the famous Golden Tip. I'll tell you why it is so costly.

"Every chest of the best dollar and a half tea contains some handfuls of undeveloped leaves of small, gold tipped leaves called Flowery Pekoe. Sort out from a chest these leaves; wrap them, a handful at a time, in a square of satin; shake the satin lightly; empty the leaves back into the chest. Clinging to the satin remain a few golden shreds, a golden fluff, a golden lint. You brush it off carefully into a jar. You cull more handfuls of undeveloped leaves from another chest, and, shaking them up in the satin, you are again rewarded with some more golden fluff.

"That is Golden Tip, and by the time you have obtained in this tedious manner a pound of it it is no wonder that the exquisite product is worth $90, or $100, is it?" He shook the tea about in its Satsuma jar. The fluffy golden stuff shimmered like satin. "Only emperors drink it," he said. "A cup costs more than a bottle of champagne."—New York Press.

CAPE COD.

A Nomadic Piece of Land That Is Constantly Changing.

Cape Cod itself is sand and, like everything of a desert nature, is nomadic. Like the Arab, it is always silently stealing away, so that the appearance of the peninsula constantly changes. The prevailing winds in the winter being from the north, the sand is blown south; in summer it is blown t'other way. But, the winter winds being stronger, the land is gradually working south. Monomoy, at the lower end, used to be an island, its extremity being called Cape Malabar, a name not used now—why I cannot say. This island of Monomoy is rapidly growing toward Nantucket, it having advanced some five miles in the last fifty years. One of the Rubes told me that his father used to fish where the light is now. Of course you can always strain Rube talk and pick out about 50 per cent sediment, but the old charts show that the point is working south fast.—From "Knocking About Cape Cod," by T. F. Daly, in Outing Magazine.

A Land of Beggars.

According to Richard Croker, it is American money which seems to be keeping Egypt going. "Two-thirds of the visitors," says Mr. Croker, "I met all around came from America, and they represented all parts of the states. They provide the people with a living not only in the hotels, but in the streets. I never saw such people for begging. As soon as an Egyptian child is born it seems to ask for backsheesh, and Egyptians are looking for money all the time."

Imagination.

"Just slap down a sketch of a drunken husband sitting in a wretched hovel of a home," requested the newspaper editor, hurrying into the apartment of the lazy staff cartoonist.

The artist carelessly complied and sprawled back in his chair.

"Don't you think it would fill out better if you were to sketch in a table and an empty whisky bottle?" inquired the editor, gazing at the bare figure.

"Oh, the readers will imagine the booze part of it, all right!"

"Well, how about adding a broken hearted wife and a couple of ragged children?"

"Unnecessary. The readers will readily imagine all that as part and parcel of such a scene."

"Then," ejaculated the editor, tearing the sketch to bits, "then the readers can imagine the drunken man."—Washington Post.

A Fine Dodger.

Carol's grandfather had served in the war, and Carol liked to hear of the many battles in which he had fought. One day after listening to the vivid recital of many heroic deeds Carol said:

"Grandfather, you went through all those battles?"

"Yes."

"And the shot and shell fell all around you?"

"Yes."

"And soldiers were falling and dying everywhere?"

"Yes."

"Well, grandfather, what a fine dodger you must have been!"—Delineator.

Sharpening a Pocketknife.

Cutlers have certain rules for sharpening razors, pocketknives, etc. "A razor," said one of the craft, "must be laid flat on the hone, because it is hollow ground and requires a fine edge. But a pocketknife requires a stiff edge, and the moment you lay it flat on a stone, so as to touch the polished side, you injure the edge. It must be held at an angle of twenty to twenty-five degrees and have an edge similar to a chisel."

Quite Likely.

"I didn't see you at our euchre the other night," said the bachelor.

"No," replied the young Benedict, "as far as euchre goes with me now, I consider 'home' the right bower."

"That's all right while hearts are trump, but I suppose if clubs should turn up it would be the left bower."—Philadelphia Press.

Dangerous.

First Actor—I thought your next tour was to have been through South Africa. Second Actor—It was, but the company struck. One of them had read that an ostrich egg often weighs two or three pounds.

Corrected.

"I wish I had never learned to play cards," exclaimed a man who had been unfortunate at the game.

"You mean you wish you had learned, don't you?" was his wife's rejoinder.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR

Hard Luck.

"Yes," said Mrs. Jiggers, "I can truthfully say that I ain't had nothin' but hard luck all my life. There was Bill Stiggins that I was engaged to first. He went to sea, and I understand he was et by cannibals. Then I married Hiram Woggs, and the Penises' bull tossed him up into the top of an apple tree, and he fell out of it and broke his neck. Then I married Tom Bagby, and he behaved so all fired bad I had to spend $10 gettin' divorced from him, and now I'm married to Jiggers."

"Well," said the sympathetic caller, "there's nothing the matter with Mr. Jiggers, is there?"

"No," said the unhappy woman, "He's as healthy as a two-year-old—feeds like a growin' boy and is as pious as a parson. Don't seem to be no hope of my ever gettin' shet of him. I'm just reg'larly cut out to suffer."—Harper's Weekly.

At the Summer Boarding House.

City Boarder—You should be arrested for getting money under false pretenses.

Farmer Ryetop—What now, neighbor?

City Boarder—Why, you said after I had been here a week I'd have an appetite like a horse.

Farmer Ryetop—And ain't you, mister? Begosh! I saw yeou eating corn off the cob at dinner.—Detroit Tribune.

The Humorous Huckster.

"How's your lettuce this morning?" asked the housekeeper.

"Splendid, lady," replied the facetious huckster. "It's good, and it's cheap, so cheap that we call it the 'advance agent.'"

"The 'advance agent!' Why do you call it that?"

"Because it's one sent ahead."—Philadelphia Press.

He Protested Too Much.

"Dingle made a statement to me yesterday, and I believed him."

"Well?"

"Then he said, "I mean just what I say.'"

"And then?"

"And then I didn't believe him."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Lilyfield Toilnot—I'd rather git me hands on one.—Philadelphia Press.

Braving Unpopularity.

"A man should never be indifferent to the good opinion of those with whom he is thrown by circumstances," remarked the philosopher.

"And yet," answered the common mortal, "we must have baseball umpires and customs inspectors."—Washington Star.

No Room For Doubt.

Miss De Playne—I wonder if Mr. Wiley knows that I'm an heiress.

Miss Peachley—Was he attentive to you?

Miss De Playne—Unusually so.

Miss Peachley—Then he knows.—Chicago News.

Apology Accepted.

Anxious Mother—Did that young man apologize for kissing you?

Pretty Daughter—Yes, mamma, and he did it so nicely that I kissed him several times just to show him how fully he was forgiven.—Denver News-Times.

The Ruling Passion.

"Even if he got into heaven he wouldn't stay there long."

"Why not?"

"Because he'd want to melt his crown into gold dollars, and he'd be hunting for a furnace in the other place!"

His Vulnerable Point.

Magistrate—You must be subjected to a great many temptations, you are up before me so often.

Prisoner—Dat's de fac', boss. Dis here am a world of temptations an' trials. But the trials hit me de hardest, boss.

Well Meant.

Hostess (to distinguished foreigner)—I do hope you won't find it dull here.

Distinguished Foreigner (politely)—Ah, no. I will not find it dull. Are not you and your husband amusement enough?—Harper's Weekly.

To Be Congratulated.

UKIAH STEAM LAUNDRY.

Beau Nash as a Gambler.

When the late Earl of T. was a youth he was passionately fond of play and never better pleased than with having Mr. Nash for his antagonist. Nash saw with concern his lordship's foible and undertook to cure him, though by a very disagreeable remedy. Conscious of his own superior skill, he determined to engage him in single play for a very considerable sum. His lordship in proportion as he lost his game lost his temper, too, and as he approached the gulf seemed still more eager for ruin. He lost his estate. Some writings were put into the winner's possession. His very equipage was offered as a last stake, and he lost that also, but when our generous gamester had found his lordship sufficiently punished for his temerity he returned all, only stipulating that he should be paid £5,000 whenever he should think proper to make the demand. However, he never made any such demand during his lordship's lifetime, but some time after his decease, Mr. Nash's affairs being in (sic) the wane, he demanded the money of his lordship's heirs, who honorably paid it without any hesitation.—"History of Gambling In England."

The Margin of Profit.

"There was a general storekeeper," said a financier, "who was forced to the wall by hard times and resolved to make an assignment. He figured out that he would be able to pay 40 cents on the dollar. Well, a certain wholesaler that he had dealt pretty heavily with heard of his plight and came posthaste to see him.

"'What!' the wholesaler shouted. 'Going to make an assignment! Pay only 40 cents on the dollar! A pretty state of things this is!'

"'Calm yourself, Mr. Wholesaler,' said the general storekeeper. 'It is true I am going to assign. These hard times have played the very deuce with me. And it's true I'm going to pay only 40 cents on the dollar. But all your goods, it happens, are intact. Not a case has been opened, and they shall be returned to you at once.'

"'What!' shouted the wholesaler, angrier than ever. 'Return my goods! Not on your life! I insist on my lawful 40 per cent, the same as the other creditors.'"—Washington Star.

Names of Flowers.

It is interesting to know how certain flowers get their names. Many were named after individuals. For instance, fuchsias were so called because they were discovered by Leonard Fuchs. Dahlias were named for Andre Dahl, who brought them from Peru. The camellia was so called for a missionary named Kamel, who brought some magnificent specimens of the flower to France from Japan. He called it the rose of Japan, but his friends changed it to camellia. Magnolias were named in honor of Professor Magnol de Montpellier, who first brought the beautiful tree to France from America and Asia. Because it trembled with the wind is the meaning of anemone. The Latin word to wash is lavare, and lavender received its name because the Romans put the flowers into water when they washed to perfume their hands.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Roman Father.

A distinguished scholar was the guest of one of the high schools of Buffalo and was greatly amused, according to a writer in the Commercial of that city, by the answer given by one of the pupils in the class in Roman history to a somewhat exacting question put by the teacher.

A lad was asked to state concisely in one sentence the distinctive difference between the society of ancient Rome and that of the present day in America. After a moment's reflection the young fellow replied:

"The distinctive difference between the society of ancient Rome and that of our day is that the father was the head of the Roman family."

The whole class shared the visitor's enjoyment of the palpable although probably unconscious hit.

Bath Not Popular In Spain.

In the quaint Spanish city of Toledo the traveler is shown upon the banks of the Tagus below Wamba's palace the alcove in which La Cava was wont to bathe until seen by Roderick, and her fate was none the happiest at the hands of the last of the Goths. To this day she is referred to as an awful example of the fate that awaits those who dare to bathe in water too often. The Spanish woman is none too liberal in her use of water for personal cleanliness, preferring oil or some other medium.

Not Good at Riddles.

A lawyer was questioning a new client, a widow, the other day, about her history. "My history," she replied, "is simplicity itself. My first was the happiness of my life, my second was goodness itself, my third"—

"Excuse me, madam," interrupted the attorney, "but really we aren't here to guess charades."

Sagacity Recognized.

"Our forefathers who framed the constitution were men of mighty intelligence."

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "I am sometimes tempted to believe that they knew as much about the constitution as some of the lawyers who have since interpreted it."—Washington Star.

Art Improvement.

Mrs. De Riche (showing her home to Mrs. Windfall)—What do you think of my Venus de Milo? Mrs. Windfall—Ain't it a shame how careless servants are! But couldn't you glue the arms on again?—Puck.

Mme. de Struve's Wit.

Secretary Blaine had said of Mme. de Struve that she was the brightest woman he had ever met, and everybody who knew her agreed with this verdict. Her knowledge of English was remarkable, even for a Russian, and her sallies were famous. For instance, the day when Secretary Bayard was made head of the American diplomatic service his daughter, Miss Kate Bayard, said laughingly to a young secretary of legation, "Remember, I am now daughter of your chief!" to which came, quick as a flash, the retort from Mme. de Struve's lips, "Oh, we all know that you are misschief!"—Army and Navy Life.

A Watch Tip.

"So you lost your watch in the crowd, eh?" Lecoq, the detective, sneered. "Well, I'm ashamed of you.

"You ought to know after your long friendship with me that there's only one safe way for a man to carry a costly watch—in the right hand vest pocket, with the chain running into the right and left pockets.

"The thief always snatches at the left pocket, and of course by my system he gets only a key or a cheap compass."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Interesting Budget of News From Our Northern Corrspondent

Willits, Nov. 10—The so-called boxing match on election night while not exactly a fake, was the next thing to it. The preliminary only lasted part of one round and the big fight ended in the third round, Lamphere getting the decision. The next day Lamphere was given to understand that his room was more desired than his company and so he hiked for Fort Bragg. He was the fellow that preferred chages against the women in our redlight district. Willits don't like that kind of sports.

The song recital given under the direction of Mrs. Edward Connor at Odd Fellows' hall last Friday night was a most enjoyable entertainment. Mrs. Connor has a splendid voice and she knows how to handle it.

H. W. Drinkle and son Walter, arrived from Lakeview, Oregon, Sunday for a short visit. Mr. Drenkle is engaged in the real estate business at that place and is doing well.

Joe Tuttle returned to Willits for a short visit last week to see how the widows and old maids were getting along. Joe is a great ladies' man and is the real candy kid. Joe is now an inmate of the Odd Fellow's home at Thermalito, Butte county.

Capt. E. A. Selfridge left for a three month's visit in the east last Saturday.

This is a fine fall for the farmers. Most of the plowing is done and the grain in.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hawkins were called to Sebastopol Sunday by the sudden death of her brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Pennington returned to San Francisco Sunday. Alf is now engaged in magazine work and writes for several eastern publications.

Fred Whited and bride returned from the metropolis Saturday and were honored? by an old fashioned charivari that night. Here's to wishing that their only troubles will be little ones.

P. I. Lancaster attended a meeting of the North of the Bay Counties Promotion Committee at Petaluma last Friday.

Supervisor Saxon has men and teams working all of the main roads in this district. All of the work is of a very substantial nature. He uses only screened gravel for the foundation and has the roads well ditched to carry off the surplus water.

Suicide at Caspar

Fritz Waschter took his own life at Caspar Saturday night by taking laudanum says the Beacon. He had been suffering from heart trouble for some time and he had told "Long John" Larson that he was going to do what he finally did. John paid little attention to it. When Fritz was found Sunday morning he was cold in death. Acting Coronor Murray held an inquest and the jury's verdict was that he took his own life with poison with suicidal intent. Deceased was a native of Germany 41 years of age, a brewer by trade and a widower. The remains were buried here Monday by Undertaker Johnson.

A WRECK ON THE ROAD

PLIGHT OF THE ENGINEER.

The Chances He Has to Take and His Fate Should He Become Crippled In a Smashup—There Are Some Things Worse Than Physical Pain.

"I just dropped in to tell you that the coroner's jury has exonerated you from all blame for the wreck. They are going to hold the block tower man."

The old engineer turned his pain drawn face toward me. A white capped nurse gently brushed back the wild hairs from his forehead.

"Thank you, miss," he said, "and you, too, sir, for the good news. I knew they couldn't blame it on me, because it was white at Mentor. Poor Denny, he'd tell you so, too, if he was alive. 'All white!' he shouted when we came round the curve, and I gave him the answer, 'All white!' and pulled her wide open. Then we struck the empties on the siding, and—well, you know the rest." He wiped a trembling hand across his eyes as if trying to blot out some horrible vision.

His eyes began to sparkle, and a bit of color flashed into his pale cheeks. "I suppose you fellows think I opened her up and went into those boxes just for fun." A smile flitted over his lips, and then he grew serious. "Say, did it ever come to your mind that an engineer might be as anxious about his own life as he is about the lives of those who are riding behind him? My wife and little one—don't you suppose my life counts for something with them?

"Did you ever stop to think what a collision like that at Mentor means to the engineer? Just try to figure yourself in his place. He rides in four square feet of cab room, surrounded by a mass of levers, rods and the like. Ahead of him is about three miles of boiler pipe, carrying 200 pounds of steam pressure and enough hot water to cook the meat off his bones in a jiffy. Clattering at his back is 6,000 gallons of water and 26,000 pounds of coal. Under him is 200,000 pounds of engine, and behind there is 600,000 pounds of train. Altogether he is running along ahead of 800,000 pounds of steel, hardwood and brass held to an eighty pound rail by three-quarters of an inch of wheel flange.

"Why, when one of those big Russian battleships fired a broadside at the Japanese the whole thing amounted only to 24,000 pounds, so the papers say. And that 24,000 pounds traveling eight miles a minute would strike a Japanese ship eight miles away with an impact only one-tenth of the force we hit the empties at Mentor.

"Of course I was the engineer and they depended on me. There is always a lot of fine talk about engineers having the lives of several hundred passengers in their hands. That's all very true, but you don't want to overlook the fact that the engineer's life is right there along with the others. We all take chances, the train crew as well as the passengers, only our chances are slimmer. I had one chance in 500 of being killed, or one in twenty-five of getting right where I am now, but a passenger on the train had one chance in about 3,000,000 of being killed and one in 130,000 of being hurt.

"I see that a lot of people were killed and a whole lot more hurt. I don't want to be a grumbler, but it appears to me that you fellows have kinder overlooked the fact that both of my legs are gone. Of course that might not mean much to you, but if you realized, as I do, that for the rest of my life it is going to be my job to hobble out into the middle of some country road and wave a white flag as every train goes by—if you could realize what that means to an engineer—to hear the mocking toot of the whistle as she comes up to the crossing and to see the sympathetic salute of the engineer and fireman as they go flying by—I tell you, my boy, there are some things worse than physical pain."

His eyes filled with tears. The nurse gently wiped them away and softly stroked back the hair.

"I wouldn't talk any more now," she said.

"All right, miss," he replied, putting out his hand to me. "I always obey orders."—B. R. Winslow in New York Tribune.

KNOWN BY NICKNAME

Places Where a Genuine Surname Is Never Even Heard.

In many places in Great Britain, and especially in some of the fishing villages of Cornwall and of certain parts of Scotland, such a thing as a genuine surname is never even heard. Every man in the place is known by a nickname.

In most of these villages this has been brought about originally by the fact that all the inhabitants have only had very few surnames among them. One or two prevailing families have represented the population and have married and intermarried till trying to distinguish a man by his surname has only created confusion. And even some of the nicknames have begun to act in the same way. At a village not very far from Wick the writer knows of some fishermen who had originally been nicknamed "Dumpy" and had left so many descendants that other specific nicknames had been necessary to distinguished which of the "Dumpys" was meant on given occasions.

At another village not far from this one several nicknames have in the same way become the only known family names. The writer was once in the general shop here when a small boy came in and asked for some article, stating that it was for Blower.

"Blower?" said the shopkeeper. "Which Blower? There are scores of Blowers?"

The child answered at once:

"It's for 'Bowleggit' Blower, 'Red Lugged' (eared) Blower's laddie."—London Answers.

THE COCA PLANT.

Its Leaves Used as an Invigorant In South America.

Coca is the South American invigorant. The shrub from which the coca leaves are obtained grows under favorable conditions to a height of about four meters. It is cultivated in Peru and Bolivia.

At the time the crop is gathered the seeds are sown in beds, when they germinate and grow, and in two months the growing plants reach a height of about a foot. The leaves, grown in the proper sunlight and shade, are yellowish, small and thick.

This is the kind of leaf that is preferred for chewing by persons using the leaf as a stimulant, fortifier and preventive of sleep and fatigue in the performance of arduous work, inasmuch as they prevent rheumatism, from which miners suffer when working in mines that contain much water. Indians who masticate the leaves of this plant can work twenty-four hours without eating or sleeping.

Coca leaves are used by the natives when engaged in long and fatiguing journeys and by soldiers when subject to hardships and privations. They may be used with all kinds of food and are said to cure dyspepsia, either taken as an infusion in the shape of tea or by masticating the leaves. The life of the plant when perfect is eighty years.—Chicago Tribune.

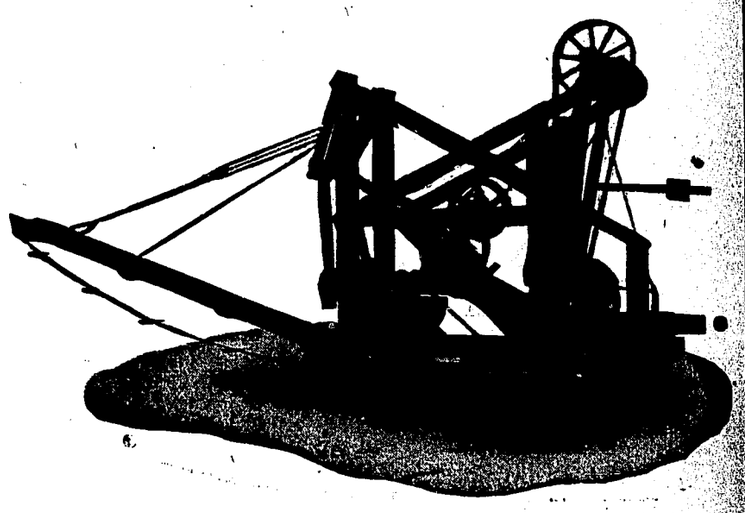
His Advantage.

"You can't spell long words like hippopotamus and parallelogram," said the little boy who wore spectacles and a sailor suit.

"Well," answered the boy who was leading a dog by a piece of rope, "dat's where I'm lucky. I don't have to."

Four Kinds of Trouble.

Judge—What have you to say as to the charge that while the husband of one woman you married three others? Bigamist—Simply this—that having four of a kind isn't what it is cracked up to be.



Have you timber on your farm? Why not clear it off and put out paying crops? Grapes do best on timber land. But make the timber pay also, as it will if you use Commiskey's Stove Wood Machine. It is a money maker for the user. 15 to 20 cords per day sawed, split and loaded in wagon, any desired length from 8 to 24 inches. Will cut and split all kinds of hard wood, knots also. Adolph Jamison and wife came over from Mendocino this week on a visit to relatives and friends. They formerly lived here and have a wide circle of friends in this vicinity.

The theme for the morning sermon at the Presbyterian church will be "Going up to Jerusalem." In the evening the topic will be "The Morals of Ukiah and the Bible." The pastor will preach.

Remember The Midland Lyceum Bureau begins their course of entertainments December 4, 1908. The first number is "Rachel Steinman Concert Company" and will be given in the Presbyterian church.

By means of small and inexpensive attachments any Edison Phonograph, except the Gem may be equipped to play a new four minute record. This means a record twice as large as the present one. If you have an Edison Phonograph come in and let us show you these attachments and hear the Edison Amberol record. At The Joseph Jewelry Store, Ukiah, Cal.

Mrs. Jerry Lierly came down from the mountain resort this week and was a guest at the Cecille for a few days.

The case against Fred Slack and H. Winbeck for illegal fishing came up in court this week. Their net extended more than a third way across the river, hence the suit brought by the Fish and Game commission.

Verge Ornbaun was here from Boonville this week attending to business. He is one of the progressive citizens of that community.

Dr. W. R. Lane, of Lakeport, brother of Mendocino's prominent citizen John C. Lane, was married in San Francisco last Sunday to Miss Sarah Margaret Dinsmore, of Lake county. Both young people are very popular in our neighboring county, Dr. Lane having a large dental practice there. They will make their home in Lakeport.

R. P. and James H. Babcock were up from Hopland last week on business. They are among the best citizens in that community.

Mrs. A. P. Brunner has been taken to the city where she is being prepared for an operation for appendicitis. She has been sick for some time.

Mrs. W. H. Davis, of Harris, and daughter Mrs. Hattie Taggart, of San Francisco, are visiting friends in this city.

R. H. Muzz was over from Boonville a few days toward the end of last week. He was very sore over his defeat for supervisor and was at outs with the whole world, abusing alike both friend and foe. He should not take himself oo seriously.

Dennis Nyhen, a resident of Laytonville, has been visiting at the county seat this week.

A. Foster arrived last week from his home in Iowa on a visit to his folks in this city. His son is the proprietor of the grocery store formerly conducted by Porterfield & Son. Mr. Foster makes California a visit every year, and likes it better each trip.

Alf Pennington was in town a few days the first of the week on business. He is now located in the metropolis and is doing magazine work. He is always received cordially by his friends here in Ukiah.

Mrs. C. E. Rich has gone to the metropolis on a visit to relatives and friends for a few days.

J. E. Medcalf, J. F. Brittan and L. A. Moody and son arrived in town this week from the north coast country. They came on business and may be here several days. Some of the party will go on to the city before returning.

James Reynolds, one of the old pioneers of the coast, died at his home near Manchester last Saturday. He had been a resident of the county for many years and was highly respected.

Mr. and Mrs. Gene McCarthy and W. K. Dillingham leave this week for Imperial. They will go overland and camp on the way. Mrs. Dillingham will go by train. It is thought that the climate there will greatly benefit her health.

Al Malpas left this week for Santa Rosa where he will accept a position with B. C. Cosgrove of the Lebanon hotel there. Al made many friends here who regret to see him leave. He will no doubt wander back again occasionally.

B. L. Cleland left this week for the metropolis where he will remain several weeks on business. He may locate there, if he sees a good business opening. Bert is made of the right kind of stuff and will succeed at anything he attempts.

The board of supervisors have been busy this week canvassing the election returns. They worked Monday afternoon and evening and completed the task by Tuesday noon. They then proceeded to take up the usual routine work of the board.

Harold Blohm, of Oakland, who has been up here on a visit to his nephew, L. J. Romer, was accidently shot Tuesday by a 22 caliber rifle. The bullet lodged in the chest. The young man was adjusting the sight when the gun was discharged. Dr. Rea was called and is attending the unfortunate young man.

The celebrated fish case from Point Arena was before the superior court this week and a regular field day was had with the witnesses and everybody else. Fred Slack and H. Winbeck were accused of fishing with a net that extended more than a third way across the river. The inability of witnsses to guess at the width of the Garcia river resulted in an acquittal. The boys went home as happy as clams at high tide.

R. C. Shepherd, of Sacramento, was here this week, looking after sheep dipping matters. He is one of the state officials and is a very affable gentleman.

Mrs. J. M. Standley came up from Mare Island last week where she had been visiting her son, Lieutenant Hal Standley. Mrs. Standley will visit here awhile with her daughters, Mrs. E. B. Gibson and Mrs. J A. Jamison, Jr.

Mrs. W. P. Mariner has gone over to Lakeport on a visit to friends. She expects to return the latter part of the week and will go up to the Van Arsdale ranch to spend a short vacation.

During the month of October, Mendocino county shipped 12,448,000 feet of lumber and 39,000 shingles to the San Francisco market. During the first nine months of the year this county has shipped a total of 131,153,333 feet of lumber.

CLOTHCRAFT STYLE

Young men want their clothes cut with a certain smartness—they ought to have what they want.

Older men—want more conservative styles—they, also, ought to have what they want.

Now, CLOTHCRAFT clothes for Fall and Winter have this merit;—you can find just the model and just the pattern best suited to your wants.

But, whatever you want, the style will be correct and proper—if you get CLOTHCRAFT.

The cutting, the making in every detail will be just right to give you good-looking clothes—a suit or an overcoat that will not only look well when you first put it on, but keep on looking well.

Because of their merit, CLOTHCRAFT clothes have the approval of the trade and of all who ever try them.

Most important, perhaps, of all—CLOTHCRAFT garments are all wool—pure wool with no cotton mixture—guaranteed wool all through.

And CLOTHCRAFT is the only line of men's clothing made of all wool materials and selling at from $10 to $25, suit or overcoat.

Look in soon while the stock is complete. Why not today? It will pay you.

WOMAN'S WIT UNCERTAIN.

As When This Wife Failed to Appreciate Hubby's Pleasantry.

"Don't always rely upon the ready wit of a woman," said the man who is sometimes pleased to consider himself an oracle. "That ready wit business is sometimes prone to get way off.

"For example, my wife and children had been staying in the country for several weeks, and I was regular with my letters, as every loving husband should be. Finally on the day before my wife was to start for home I concluded my letter to her with these words:

"'This will be the last letter I will write to you for a long, long time.'

"When I got down to my office the next morning I found a telegram from my wife waiting for me. 'What on earth do you mean?' read the dispatch.

"Later a registered letter came from her. She had blotted almost every line with tears. What it was all about I could not imagine.

"Then my telephone bell rang, and when I answered I heard my wife's voice speaking over the long distance phone.

"'Oh, John!' said she. 'Is that really you? I thought you had committed suicide!'"—Washington Post.

Remedy For Choking.

"Raising the left arm as high as you can will relieve choking much more rapidly than the act of thumping one's back," said a physician. "and it is well that every one should know it, for often a person gets choked while eating where there is no one near to thump him. Very frequently at meals and when they are at play children get choked while eating, and the customary manner of relieving them is to slap them sharply on the back. The effect of this is to set the obstruction free. The same thing can be brought about by raising the left hand of the child as high as possible, and the relief comes much more quickly. In happenings of this kind there should be no alarm, for if the child sees that older persons or parents get excited the effect is bad. The best thing is to tell the child to raise its left arm, and immediately the difficulty passes away."

The Popping Stone.

"The popping stone" marks the spot where Sir Walter Scott asked Miss Carpenter to marry him. It is situated in the beautiful valley of the Irthing, at Gilsland, an inland watering place near Carlisle. The popping stone is visited by many thousands during the summer months, and it is said many a laggard lover has had his courage screwed up to popping point at this romantic spot. In the immediate neighborhood may also be seen "Mumps Ha," which Scott immortalized in "Guy Mannering," while a little farther afield the Roman wall and Lanercost priory prove attractions to visitors to Gilsland.—London Chronicle.

Persian Burials.

In Persia two sticks a foot long are placed in the coffin to prop up the arms of the corpse when it rises from the grave and is being questioned by the angel Gabriel. After it has satisfied the angel that it is the body of a true Mussulman it will receive strength to stand alone. A glance from a dog is necessary to drive away the spirit of defilement, and for this purpose a street cur is brought into the room of death and its eyes led to the corpse by a tempting bit of bread laid on the still breast.

A Haughty Reply.

A story about William Pitt I read or heard somewhere many years ago represented a noble mediocrity as assuring the great statesman with some condescension that he might fairly expect an earldom for his magnificent services.

"I an earl!" was the haughty reply. "I make dukes."—St. James' Gazette.

WASHINGTON LETTER

[Special Correspondence.]

Those cute little electric railroads which were to have connected the senate and house office buildings with the capitol are not to be installed, at least not for the present and perhaps not at all. The subways are to be finished with a coat of cement, hard and white and giving an excellent reflecting surface, but the travel in the subways will be in the good old way, on foot, except that freight will be handled on rubber tired electric trucks.

No Subway Trains.

The house building commission, consisting of Speaker Cannon and Representatives Hepburn and Richardson, has not been enthusiastic over plans for subway electric trains, moving platforms or any other of the various devices submitted for handling traffic between the capitol and the office buildings. They and others among the older members have a strong tendency toward practicability and economy. They even insisted that there should be no ostentation in the finishing, fitting and furnishing of the offices, and in consequence whatever money has been spent for such things has been spent chiefly in the public rooms, where the people and not members of congress will get the benefit of them.

Cost Would Be Heavy.

To install an electric road over the present routes from the capitol to the house building and from the capitol to the senate building would cost from $80,000 to $100,000, it is estimated, and to operate it would cost about 15 per cent of that sum annually, perhaps more.

Taking these arguments into consideration, the house building commission practically vetoed the railroad, but left the matter in the hands of Superintendent Woods, who has decided to postpone the embarkation of the government into the railroad business. As for the senate, it has also washed its hands of responsibility and more completely than the house has done, for it gave to Mr. Woods absolute authorization to follow his judgment.

Hundreds of cords of wood are used at the capitol every year, besides quantities of coal, wagon loads of stationery and sundry other items of merchandise. In the future these probably will be delivered by wagon on the C street side of the house building or on the corresponding side of the senate building, unloaded right on to the electric pneumatic tired trucks and whisked swiftly to their destination.

New Elevators In Capitol.

Probably the most important improvement at the capitol this year, from the standpoint of the public, is the work of installing two new passenger elevators at the main door of the house wing.

This will involve moving the postoffice to the new house office building, where quarters have been provided for it, and the space vacated will be given to the sergeant at arms. The public will then be able to go upstairs at the door of the capitol and leave the members' elevators entirely for their own use.

Another piece of work at the capitol is the removal of the partitions between the quarters of the naval affairs committee and the passageway along the light well. This will throw the wall of the committee room out to the light well and will give additional room and light. A similar change will be made on the floor above.

To Condemn Land.

The United States has filed a petition in the District supreme court to secure the condemnation of the property in the five squares bounded by Pennsylvania avenue and B street and Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets northwest, for the purpose of which congress appropriated $2,500,000. The squares are known on the plat books as 226 to 230. The land is to be used as a site for two or more public buildings.

Plaza Ornamentation.

Plans showing details of the ornamental work for the plaza in front of the Union station have been received by the commissioners, and work will soon begin. In the center will be the memorial statue of Columbus, some distance in front of which will be a large flagpole. On each side the Columbus memorial, slightly to the rear, will be two artistic fountains. At close intervals along the roadway will be placed tall bronze columns and lamp standards. Details of the Columbus memorial have not been worked out, but rough sketches have been prepared. The front will show a prow of a caravel, with Columbus standing at the front. The boat and water effect will be in stone and the figure of Columbus in bronze.

Small Naval Class.

The complete list of the new fourth class at the Naval academy, compiled at the navy department, shows the class to be composed of 208 members. The fourth class, as a rule, contains from 275 to 300 members. The low number is accounted for to some extent by the fact that a large number failed to qualify. Of the 208 about twenty are yet to be re-examined, they having failed on minor physical defects.

At the opening of the term there will be 801 midshipmen enrolled, according to the present outlook. This is considerably below the normal number at the academy, each class being smaller than usual. The first class will contain 177 midshipmen, the second class 171, the third class 255 and the fourth class 208. Last year's first class numbered 201 midshipmen on the date of graduation, that being the largest graduating class in the history of the institution.

WOMAN AND FASHION

New Waist Model.

The lower part is encircled with a group of tucks, which make a right angled turn on each side of the front, disappearing under the girdle.

The sleeves are trimmed to correspond, and both sleeves and blouse are ornamented with little pearl buttons.

Latest Lingerie Hints.

Silk petticoats with embroidery ruffles and satin petticoats with linen ruffles are among the novelties. And this offers a suggestion to the woman who has a wornout satin petticoat which might be freshened with a tan colored linen ruffle. An old satin petticoat may be brought back to life by the addition of a ruffle of dark brown and blue checked silk above which there is a puffing of plain brown silk.

The dainty white lingerie combinations are worn by women who want to appear slim, and the newest of these are finished with a handsome trimming of wide insertion around the neck, through which there are drawn some colored embroidery threads to give the appearance of an embroidered underslip.

The Parted Pompadour.

If a woman can arrange a pompadour with a part in it she is lucky indeed. This classic style of hairdressing has come back into first favor.

The hair is not smoothly brushed back from the parting. We doubt if even in classic days the lines were so severe. It took the trying days of the civil war to invent such severity.

The hair is fluffed out at the sides, and if one feels that it is barbarism to roughen the hair from beneath, which does break its ends and takes all the luster out of it, then one may resort to either of these two methods—use small, thin puffs on a string under the hair over the ears or a soft roll of malines in the same shade as the hair. Then at the back twist the hair into a soft figure 8.

Street Costume of Black and White.

A smart coat and skirt costume of striped flannel is here shown, the model being especially worthy of notice in the way the striped material is cut.

A THREE PIECE SUIT.

The collar and buttons are of black moire silk, and the coat is worn with a folded vest of white flannel edged with a little oriental embroidery.

No More Folds.

In the matter of folds on her frocks the fashionable girl waves her hands daintily, aghast at the mention. Folds are seldom to be seen in the new skirts and then usually broken in form. Embroidery, on the contrary, fairly flowers upon modish frocks and is to be seen in designs wrought upon the whole gown in panel effects, ornamental pieces and borders for overskirt effects, which are not really overskirts.

"THE PROHIBITION WAWE"

The prohibition wave seems to be receding.. As is usual in American politics the pendulum swings too far one way and then the other, but finally returns to a normal position. That seems to be about the case regarding the liquor question. A year ago the pendulum swung prohibition-wa.d very far. It is now returning to the normal and the business and industrial equilibrium is gradually being restored. Sometimes radicalism serves a good purpose by causing the people to wake up and listen to the voice of the people. Evils sometimes exist and those in power refuse to right the wrongs, then radicalism steps in and holds sway for awhile until the people come to their senses.

Last year there was a great prohibition wave that engulfed the country. The brewers of the country took hold of the situation and have themselves adopted mesures that has stopped the movement to a great extent by waging war on the low dives and the groggeries and refusing to sell liquor to retail dealers who will not live up to the law. This is a long step in the right direction and will help solve the liquor question. The conservative sentiment of the country is not for prohibition but for proper regulation of the traffic. Where the traffic is properly regulated there is little or no agitation. The saloon men are finally waking up to the situation and with them rests the future of the liquor business. If the saloon men will refuse liquor to a man who is drunk or one whose family needs the money for the necessaries of life and obey the laws relative to the traffic the agitation will recede and conditions will resume their normal condition once more. It is the abuse and not the use that does the harm. Local option will take the place of State wide prohibition as it has in Tennessee and many other southern states. It will be up to the individual saloon men to conduct decent places or lose their licenses.

The varied interests of Mendocino county and the future of the grapes and the hops would indicate that the normal conditon would be best for our county. The regulation by the board of supervisors seems satisfactory to all. The saloons are all obeying the law, and offering rewards for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of any saloon man violating the law. Let us all hope that everything will progress in this even tenor of way so that there may be no necessity for further agitation along this line.

On the day following the election, the San Francisco Chronicle had a vicious cartoon of Mr. Bryan, and literally jumped all over him. Some of the local pee wee machine politicians thought it was great and chuckled over it in great glee. Two days afterwards The Dispatch came out with a humorous cartoon of R. H. Rawles, the defeated candidate for supervisor in the First district. This same bunch of irresponsibles thought it was horrible to jump all over a man after he was down and out politically. It is all right to cartoon a Democratic candidate running for the insignificant position of President, but it is poor taste and mighty bad form to cartoon a Republican candidate running for the high and exalted position of supervisor of a district that has 600 votes. Who said anything about consistency?

—o—o—

In this State the Democrats have made decided gains and are in a much better position than they were before the election. They have gained three State Senators and fourteen Assemblymen. These with the independent Republicans assisting will make it very interesting for the Railroad machine. Nationally the party is in a better position than it was after the election in 1904. The Democrats have gained seven members in the lower house of Congress and will make a gain of two or three United States Senators. Besides this they have elected governors in several northern states that have not had Democratic governors for over a decade. So, taking it all in all, the party is in good shape and will be able to win the next fight.

Let every one get down to business now. We are to have four years more of Republican rule. Let us all hope that it will be good for the country. Taft is to be the President of all the people. The people want good times and a wise administration of the affairs of government. They do not care through what avenue or party it is secured. Let us all do what we can in a small way to restore confidence and put business on a normal scale once more. The people have spoken and all should obey the mandate. Stop talking politics and talk business for the next two years.

Wanted—A ranch on a living stream especially suitable for hog raising. Must contain sufficient plow land to raise required feed, must be well fenced and have good improvements. Will pay all cash if price is right. Give fullest description possible in first letter.

California Colony Co.,
45 Kearny St., San Francisco.

Ernest Eichen and Edna Brown have taken out a marriage license and have probably jumped the broom stick by this time.

Major David Smart was down from Willits this week spending a few days with friends.

John S. Reed has decided to move the job plant of the Northern Crown from this city to Petaluma and has been busy this week getting his machinery and stock and fixtures ready for shipment. The Northern Crown will be issued from Petaluma in future and Johnny will do a job business there as he has done here.

Mr. O. Simonson was down from Willits a few days this week on business Mr. Simonson was formerly supervisor of the Third district and is one of the substantial business men of that community. He is well pleased with the result of the election as far as county affairs are concerned.

Len Barnard and W. T. Saxon came down from the north on Monday's freight to be on hand at the regular meeting of the board of supervisors this week. Supervisor Lawson came over from Boonville and Supervisor Gillmore put in an appearance from the south coast, and all were soon busy at work with their usual duties.

Charley Lawson, one of the young business men of Boonville, was over at the county seat this week on business. He is a contractor and has built several good bridges and some roads. He is a splendid young man and a good Democrat. He is a brother of D. H. Lawson, the popular supervisor of that district.

Mrs. Ed Lamb was taken to the city the first of the week to have an operation performed for appendicitis. The operation was performed Monday and fears were entertained as to her recovery. Mr. Lamb and family went down immediately. It is hoped that the lady will survive the shock and be restored to health.

Mrs. Annie Elizabeth Ware, of Fort Bragg, died last week at the ripe old age of 73 years and 21 days. Mrs. Ware crossed the plains in 1854 and is said to be the first white woman to travel on the pony express from San Francisco to Galveston. She was the mother of W. W. Ware, a former resident of this city.

Richard Cox came over from Yorkville this week on business. It is the first time he has been here for several years. He is a prosperous rancher of that section, living on the hill between Yorkville and Hopland. He says that the people of Yorkville are well pleased with the result of the election, especially supervisor. He thinks Lawson has made a splendid official for the taxpayers.

Bowlin Hiatt and Omar Robinson, two prominent "Muzz Exterminators" of Boonville, paid the county seat a pleasant visit this week. The boys say that there is much weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth since the election. Some of the strong supporters of "Muzzism" have been kicked out of the ranks by their friends, and accused of "double crossing." And so the internal war goes on.

Notice to Creditors

In the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Mendocino.

In the matter of the estate of Frederick W. Lorenz, deceased.

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned administrator of the estate of Frederick W. Lorenz, deceased, to the creditors of and all persons having claims against the said deceased to exhibit them with the necessary vouchers within four months after the first publication of this notice to the said administrator at the law offices of Arthur J. Thatcher in Ukiah City, the same being the place for the transaction of the business of said estate in the County of Mendocino, State of California.

C. H. LORENZ,
Administrator of the estate of Frederick W. Lorenz, deceased.

Dated November 13, 1908.

Arthur J. Thatcher, attorney for estate, Ukiah, California.

Notice

I hereby give notice that I am about to apply for executive clemency.

Dan J. Kelley,
No. 21045, San Quentin.

Athletic Contests

The Ukiah Athletic Club anticipate giving another contest on Thanksgiving eve. The main event will be a whirlwind go between Grover Binkley and Walter Coffey, of Santa Rosa. This promises to be the best go yet pulled off in this city as these lads have met in the padded arena before, Binkley winning after 11 rounds of fast fighting. Two good preliminaries will also be on the bill.

Charley Cunningham arrived in town from Sacramento Wednesday on a visit to his parents in this city. Charley made the race for the Assembly in his district but was defeated by the Taft landslide. He made a great race in a Republican district, however. He lost out by 322, but ran 171 votes ahead of his ticket. He would have won had it not been for the Taft landslide. He says he is really glad that the did not win.

SUPERVISOR'S PROCEEDINGS

patch-Democrat.

The auditor was instructed to draw his warrant for $5 for each individual election officer in precincts where the total vote was 50 or under—and for $6 for each officer in precincts where the total vote was over 50 and less than 150, and $7 for each officer in each precinct where the total vote exceeded 150 votes.

Ornbaun valley-Fish Rock road—Bid of C. A. Lawson accepted for $5850; $4000 of said sum to be paid out of County General, 1908, $500 to be paid out of First district road fund, 1908; $850 to be paid out of County General Fund 1909 and $500 to be paid out of First district fund 1909. A contract is to be drawn up and signed by said C. A. Lawson and he is to furnish a bond of $3000.

The time for hearing the complaints againts Al Want and Fred Schade was set for 10 o'clock, December 8, 1908.

An order was made rescinding the action taken November 10th in the matter of J. F. Collins closing the road through his place.

Plans and specifications as presented for bridge across Litte Lake outlet in Third district were adopted.

An order was made to advertise for bids to build said bridge, bids to be received up to 2 o'clock Tuesday, December 8, 1908 and bids to be opened at 2:30 same day.

An allowance of $10 allowed Mrs. Wolf, to be paid in supplies.

The bills of Wm. H. Poe for $40 for care of Indigent was rejected.

It appearing to the board that the bid of Lucas Bros. was the lowest responsible bid for the construction of a cottage at the county farm, said bid was accepted and awarded to said Lucas Bros. A bond of $700 was required of the above firm. Geo. Lambert was appointed inspector of the cottage to be erected.

The following petitions were presented and accepted by the board: Correction of assessment of C. E. Wilson, R. G. Sowers, M. M. Fulwider estate, Mrs Annie O'Neil, and Albert Brown.

Board adjourned to 10 o'clock Monday, December 7, 1908.

The following bills were allowed.
